1. TEACHER MADE WRITTEN TESTS ESSENTIALLY BASED ON SUBJECT CONTENT.

A teacher made written test is one of the most important instrument in the hands of a teacher which helps the teacher in knowing the weakness and strength of the student in the given content and help the child to rule out the problems the child is encountering with and helps him in knowing the weakness and strength of the student in the given content. It is prepared to measure the learning outcomes among its learners. Sometimes the teacher made written tests are also called as achievement tests which are constructed by the teacher to assess the learning progress of the student and also to identify if there is any leaning difficulty in particular content or the concept.

2. OBSERVATION MODES FOR INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP ACTIVITIES.

The college provides ample opportunities for the student trainees to practice the teaching skills and the observation modes used in the individual and group activities are discussed below

a) Observation of Micro Teaching Sessions

As per the curriculum prescribed by the University of Mysore for the B.Ed course the institution provides an opportunity for every student-teacher of first year, I semester to present the skills related to teaching.

Micro teaching is a teacher training technique which provides a teacher an opportunity to perk up with the teaching skills. The practice in skills helps the novice teachers to learn the art of teaching at ease. Micro teaching sessions are divided into small groups of student trainees where students demonstrate the skills in small groups and they are evaluated by their peer and also by the teacher educator and immediate feedback is given to the student trainee and they are asked to Re-teach if needed. The student teacher demonstrates and practices the lessons using a trial and error method which in turn helps him to learn and to teach effectively. The micro teaching helps in eliminating errors, helping the student-teacher know their weakness and strength and to build stronger teaching skills among the beginners, boosting the self-confidence improving the in-class teaching performances and helping in developing classroom management skills.

3. PERFORMANCE TESTS

It is an assessment that requires an examinee to actually perform a task or activity rather than simply answering questions. This can be used to engage students in meaningful learning.

Our students are engaged in Psychology Practical sessions termed as Psycho Social Tools and Technique (PSTT) where students learn different experiments and tasks in groups and individually helping the student trainee to acquire the essential skills and providing hands on experience for the student trainee.

Understanding self-personality and Yoga is again an integral part of the curriculum here the student practice asanans and perform it in the group and the student is asked to practice it in the assigned group with the mentor as an in-charge of the group.

Every student teacher performs in "Understanding Drama and art in Education" and each of the student teacher is assessed here based on their performance in the skit/Drama, their dialogue delivery and the competency in using the verbal and non-verbal communicative skill in their respective pedagogies.

4. ORAL ASSESSMENT

Any assessment of student learning that is conducted by the spoken words which in turn help the teacher to know the language fluency of the students and their confidence in facing the interview, assessing students for their communicative skills, language proficiency, and use of gestures. The student trainees of first year and the second year have oral assessment for Understanding self, Personality and Yoga, ICT Applications, Research Project, Teacher Placement and CET and Viva voce for internship program.

This Oral assessment of the student trainee helps us to know their understanding of the subject and also helps us to refine their thoughts and to enhance their understanding in the concept and it is often conducted between one student and the assessors. The students are asked different questions related to the subject matter in each of the viva voce. The students are grouped and each group of students have a mentor and the oral assessment is conducted in the groups.
